Hard to Beat the American Women.

The high cost of living has lost its terrors for many of the women of the city. They are learning to order their household supplies direct from the factory, thus avoiding the middlemen's profits. By the Larkin "Factory-to-Family" plan, they obtain their Soaps, Teas, Spices, Foodstuffs, Toilet Articles, Pharmacal Preparations and other household supplies for just half what they would have to pay for them at the store. The Larkin Co. sells you its Products at the same prices as the store, but it gives you a double quantity of Products of your own selection. In this way you get $2.00 worth of goods for every dollar you spend Wite to the Lurkin Co., Buffalo, N. Curious Fruits and Plants Are Described in Inventory.

Wheat, Siberian Cherry, Arctic Cur rant Wood That Will Not Rot, and Forage Capable of Being Hybridized Found in Arctic.

Washington.-More strange and cu rious fruits and plants than usual are noted in the "inventory of foreign seed and plant introduction just issued by David Fairchild, the chief of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture. The present inventory contains a number of the agricultural finds of Frank N. Myer, the agricultural explorer, who recently returned from two years in Manchuria and Siberia.

One of his finds is a new variety of winter durum wheat obtained from the Russian agricultural experiment sta-When on April 15 you make your tion in the government of Samara. It way to the show grounds where the is called Teskaia and has been bred for cold resistance. > Many of Mr. Myer's finds, coming from the interior of Siberia, are adapted to a cold and semi-arid region, and therefore are likely to be of use in extending the dry farming belt of the United States. One of them is a forage plant of the astragalus family. a branchy, upright plant that is really eaten by cattle and that seems able to stand any amount of cold drought.

> He also has found a forage plant that in these days of plant breeding, it is thought, can be hybridized as a forage plant. It is a relative of the famous sulla, but this has never been grown in the southern states owing to its susceptibility to frost. The new plant that may be crossed with it grows in Siberia as far east as Lake Bikal, and promises to furnish a new and good forage where such plants are greatly needed.

> Now that Alaska is getting so thickly settled, there is a demand for fruits that will live there, and Mr. Fairchild speaks of the Siberia cherry that has been found by Mr. Myer as very promising. It is a bush cherry growing no more than four fet high, but the fruit, while small, makes an excellent preserve. It lives outdoors at a temperature of forty below zero. The natives use the preserve instead of sugar in hot tea, and Mr. Myer says the combination is by no means as bad as it sounds. But the arctic cherry is gone one better by an arctic black current that he found growing out at a temperature of -58. This, it also is thought, will do well in Alaska.

No Profit in Alligators. The difficulty about raising alligators to supply the demand for the animals and skins is that they do not attain full growth for about 100 years. The skin of the six or seven-year-old animal is available, however, for many practical purposes.
